

Nike Dunks – What Is So Extraordinary About Them

If you are connected to Nike Dunks in one way or another, it is hard to escape what goes on around you about the sneakers, although not necessarily as a seller or maker. Finally, I was in fact compelled to write this piece to clarify why it is really worth your money to invest in Nike Dunks. At the same time I was a bit skeptic that my article could ruin the party leading me to dillydally all this while; for one, it still holds good that something that sells hot like Nike Dunk SB or Nike Dunk rests upon word of mouth than on other virtues past a stage. Well, let's go.

Nike Dunks are misleadingly plain in looks with low profile outer sole and double stitched footgears although different models typically have distinct styles. Occasionally we see a high profile, high top Nike Dunk SB resembling the old school of designing but often it is the sporty, low pro SBs with over 65 unique varieties and color combinations that hold sway.

Although Nike Dunks SB fans frequently grumble about soles wearing out faster, they are unable to switch loyalty particularly because of these two significant reasons which are acknowledged by skateboarders quickly.

1. The thinness of soles permit maximum control to perform flip-tricks
2. Although thin, the soles still provide enough cushion

When Nike Dunks was released, it was meant for basketball which is evident from the name Nike Dunks. It was a big surprise for Nike that thought it wouldn't be making full fledged skateboarding shoes till the dunks were patronized by skateboarders because of their flat sole which offered great comfort to them. The letters SB in Nike Dunks' skateboard models, which hence begun production, signify their pledge to the fraternity boasting of suede toe caps, zoom air soles for superior grips and nice soft tongues.

Amidst all praises Nike Dunks and Nike Dunk SB have also received some brickbats but the market being a great leveler has evened out everything else into nothingness as sales figures only matters for the company. The anti-campaigners have been targeting the colorways and designs, but given the vast variety you are hardly left with anything to complain about. Again, this is precisely something you can barely expect from competing brands to offer you with. Truly, I would be surprised if Nike Dunks fans aren't confused choosing their fashion; indeed, a problem of plenty!

To begin with, Nike was apprehensive of making foray into skateboarding shoe sector which would have rendered them playing second to existing players which in any way turned out not to be. The enormous portfolio, from baby dunks to Nike Dunk Pro SBs, Nike Dunk SB has outlived this apprehension.

I can't recommend you to buy Nike Dunks because others are buying. One must prefer to do what he or she likes best and if Nike Dunk SB provides for doing just that, go for it, like in all other aspects of life.
